Save time and money with reusable name tents

Save yourself from pre-printing formal name cards and let participants write their preferred name on these erasable, reusable name cards. The high-quality, two-sided, molded plastic tents let you see names from the front or back of the room. They clean up quickly and easily, so you can use them again and again!

The white tents use Standard Dry-Erase Markers. For the black tents, use Fluorescent Dry-Erase Markers.

To successfully create community, be aware that some people hate icebreakers. Instead of making them feel safe, icebreakers can cause stress or feel like a waste of time. Address these concerns. Explain your reason for conducting the exercise and give shy players an easy way to opt-out if needed.

Build relationships and understanding

"Breaking the ice" is critical to creating a warm, welcoming, learning-friendly environment. Our unique Thumballs help participants break down barriers, explore learning goals and get to the heart of topics that matter:

Session Openers: Questions about goals, motivations, and aspirations

Getting to Know You: Probing questions that get to your phobias, wishes and favorite moments

Icebreaker: Questions about food, movies, favorites, etc.

If You Were a...: Describe yourself using an analogy (i.e. If I were a flavor, I'd be ____)

Which Are You?: Choose between two opposing words or explain where you are on the continuum

Be a Leader: Discuss leadership traits and opportunities for team development

Shaped by Our Past: Discuss past experiences to understand what makes your group tick

Stress Management: Uncover sources of stress and identify ways to manage it

10 Ways to INSPIRE continued effort

Give Kudos often

Everyone performs better when they feel recognized and appreciated. Rather than waiting for momentous events, take time to notice positive effort every day! 4" x 5.25".

Tell them what's working

1. Kudos for Colleagues (Blue): Encourage peer-to-peer feedback. 25 sheets/pad
2. Kudos for Work (Orange): Jot quick notes from managers to staff. 25 sheets/pad
3. Kudos for Growth and Learning (Green): Support a growth mindset. 25 sheets/pad

Share an appreciative smile

4. Kudos! Pens: Recognize effort with a pen that will stick around.
5. Mini Kudos Sticky Notes: All you need to do is sign your name. 25 sheets/pad

Take notice...and keep a record of it

6. "I Noticed... you've taken our values to heart": Use carbonless Kudos to give recognition and keep a copy for yourself!

Put it in your own words...

7. Appreciation Sticky Notes: Offer plenty of room to write a personal note. 25 sheets/pad

Reflect happiness!

Whether talking face-to-face or over the phone, smiling makes a big difference! Remind your group to communicate their positive energy through their voice. Karen Leland and Keith Bailey, authors of Customer Service for Dummies, say, "The reason [a smile works] is not psychological, but physiological. When you smile, the soft palate at the back of your mouth raises and makes your voice sound friendly, warm and receptive."

Reflect happiness!

Whether talking face-to-face or over the phone, smiling makes a big difference! Remind your group to communicate their positive energy through their voice. Karen Leland and Keith Bailey, authors of Customer Service for Dummies, say, "The reason [a smile works] is not psychological, but physiological. When you smile, the soft palate at the back of your mouth raises and makes your voice sound friendly, warm and receptive."

Mirrors are backed with a gentle adhesive tab so that they can be mounted and removed from a computer or wall.

Smile. They can hear it in your voice!

Motivate your group with shared goals

Create a visual reminder of your group's goals on a dry-erase thermometer and mark progress as they progress. Add notes for milestones, dates, accomplishments or challenges they've overcome.

Fathead® Thermometer: Use a marker to indicate progress on this vinyl wall poster backed with gentle adhesive. 18" W x 47" H; includes stars and arrows.
